

Construction Industry Shines With DBJ 2020 Business Of The Year Awards

The Annual Dayton Business Journal Business of the Year Awards is designed to highlight the dynamic, innovative, and vibrant business community of the Miami Valley.

The Miami Valley Construction Industry deservedly stood out in the awards presented, demonstrating that construction serves as a major part of the success of our local economy.

PSC CRANE & RIGGING – JIM SEVER, PRESIDENT; RANDY SEVER, EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT JIM / FAMILY OWNED BUSINESS WINNER

PSC Crane & Rigging is an 87-year-old company started by Earl Sever in 1933. PSC is a crane rental, rigging, machinery moving, and industrial services business and is a well-respected name in the construction industry. PSC is in its fourth generation of family ownership, being led by Jim and Randy Sever. Congratulations to PSC in winning this well-deserved award.

2J SUPPLY – JASON TRIMBACH, CEO/ FAMILY OWNED BUSINESS FINALIST

CEO Jason Trimbach is keeping 2J moving forward with a new corporate headquarters being completed and expanding its market area into Indianapolis. All of this in the face of COVID-19. Sales has been strong for the company that currently employs 125 people. Congratulations to Jason and 2J Supply in being recognized for their contribution to the local economy.

SHOOK CONSTRUCTION – BILL WHISTLER, CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD / EXECUTIVE OF THE YEAR FINALIST

Bill Whistler is well known not only in the area construction industry, but as a strong supporter and promoter of the Dayton community. Bill is certainly one of Dayton's outstanding company executives and a great representative of the Miami Valley construction industry.
